“ Glenn and I have been friends for almost 40 years! One of the best memories I have is walking with him arm in arm with a group of friends down his snowed covered street during winter storm 93 with all of us singing “We shall overcome “ meaning we would overcome the ice storm. Glenn was a one of a kind, an incredible person that I was honored to call my friend.

There are many other memories that bring smiles to my mind, but the memory of who he was as a person, a character, a collector, a true human being who was not ashamed of who he was in life or his friends. Glenn taught me many things in this life , one of the most important things was to accept people for were they are in life, he taught me how to be more accepting of all people regardless of race gender, beliefs..... but most importantly he taught me what the word Friendship truly meant.

Love you Glenn! You will be missed, thanks for making a difference in my life!
