“Arise, my love, my beautiful one, and come away,
for behold, the winter is past; the rain is over and gone.

The flowers appear on the earth, the time of singing has come,
and the voice of the turtledove is heard in our land.

The fig tree ripens its figs, and the vines are in blossom;
they give forth fragrance.

Arise, my love, my beautiful one, and come away.”

Song of Solomon 2:10(b)-13

“ Sarah, your light still illuminates my life when I remember all of the awesome face to face talks we had about Richard Rhor and other stuff!

“ Sarah, I miss you more than you'll ever know. Being a part of your life changed my thinking about everything. You searched and searched diligently on how you could be a better Christian. You knew

"Constant complete attentionesus' main request. I know, if there's a heaven, that you are there chillin. Remember this night. What a terrible show but it was still the place I would be more than anyone else. Thank you Sarah, for choosing me to be a big part of your life. Thank you so much!"

“ I only knew Sarah for a brief time. We met this year and I just found out about her passing. I am deeply saddened. I had hoped to reconnect with her. What a joy she was.... she was truly a light in this world. We met in Statesboro and I enjoyed taking walks and talking with her. I am so thankful to have known her, even for a little while. She is someone I'll never forget and always keep in my heart. Sending love and prayers for her family. I love you Sarah ❤️

“ I miss Sarah so much that the tears just won't stop. We both have sensitive souls. We shared a deep love for the Lord and neither of us were good at coping when our own choices left us with deep regret. In those times, or when we had been apart for too long and we're missing each other, one of us would send, "I love you no matter what. You know that don't you?" And the other one would respond "Yes, I do." And then, "I love you too no matter what. You know that don't you?" And the other would respond, "Yes. I do." "I love you Sarah, no matter what and I know that you know that I do." "When It's my time to meet Our One True Love, we'll rejoice in His presence and in His love for me and you.”

“ I met Sarah as a teenager. She came to talk with me for many months, just sorting out her life as young people do. She carried things deeply and with a profound sense of connection to them. I cherish the memory of talking with this beautiful young woman, remembering her boundless energy, radiant smile, but also her old soul. Her capacity to love was extraordinary. Having just found out about her passing, I am deeply grieved today, all these years later, because she was so alive. Even seeing her on facebook now and then made me smile and hope goodness for her. Her loss is great for the world.. My prayers and sympathy and love to all of you in the family, who lived for me through her stories. She was a gift who never shied away from shooting the rapids headfirst and carried herself with such genuineness. I shall miss her.

“ Though only 2 days...that was enough time for Sarah to capture our hearts. On that last night, before leaving, I looked into those beautiful eyes, my hands on her sweet face, and telling her “I love you, you got this”. Our hearts are broken for you, her family. God Bless~

“ I have no memory to share just my sincerest sympathy for your loss. I lost my daughter at age 30 after her heroic battle with cancer so I know the pain your family is feeling. right now. I am praying that the Lord is with you and strengthens you and gives you his peace. I am including one of the poems I wrote after our daughters passing. I hope it helps .

*Come the Savior called to you,
See my all my promises were true,
Come unto me don't be afraid,
Come I have your sin debt paid,
Come because I call your name,
Your the reason that I came,
Come and Heaven's Glory see,
I've saved a spot here next to me,
Come and leave this old life behind,
And travel past the hands of time,
Come and sit here by my side,
In my presence now abide,
Come Rejoice, for all is new,
And you went as He asked you to,
Come see your step is once more spry,*
