“ Will and I met in 2008 on deployment when we were in securitytogether. He did NOT like me and I did NOT like him. I thought he was this tall gym rat with a bad attitude and he thought I was just some loud mouth. As the months went by and we became friends and it turns out he just didn't like working security. After we got back from deployment I moved in with Will and somehow just never left. He never wanted me to. Whenever we would go on a date he would hold my hand, tell me how pretty I looked, and always made sure that he was doing right by me. He was my husband, my protector, and my best friend all before we were even married. The love he had for me and the love I have for him will never fade. I would give anything to look into his eyes again.

“ Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted. Big Will impacted my life in so many ways, without even knowing he did. He is my brother in Christ and witnessing his salvation gives me comfort that he is with our Savior.
